1. INTRODUCTION

Each year the ANU Medical School ('the School') may offer an award known as the Jessica King Scholarship ('the Award').

The objective of the Award is to assist Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander students to undertake the Doctor of Medicine and Surgery program (8950XMCHD) at the Australian National University ('ANU').

Funding for this Award has been provided by the Weltverbesserung Fund. The Fund is a family-run trust which aims to promote equity in health, justice and the arts.

In the event a recipient is required to repeat a year of the program, an extension to the length of the Award may be granted at the discretion and approval of the Director of the Medical School. The Award is paid in instalments after each semester census date, unless otherwise stated in the letter of offer.

The recipient is responsible for making payment of all tuition fees by the prescribed date as set out by the University each session. Recipients of the Award are responsible for the costs of books, study materials, accommodation and all other costs of study.
